HELEN HELP US!

by Helen Bottel

HEADED FOR TROUBLE

Dear Helen: I am 16, and at my new part time job in a cafe, I met Jim. At 18, he is a drop-out, rarely keeps the same job more than a month, and is an all-around trouble maker, starting fights all the time.

He told me he had a wife and son, but now he tells me he was just kidding. I don't know which to believe. I guess I'm pretty naive.

Jim has been very nice to me. What people say about him doesn't seem true. He is fun to be with, and never gets fresh. He walks me home after work at night. I asked him about his reputation, and he said he wouldn't ever hurt a girl like me. But he still likes his wild crowd, and the "street" girls.

I know I should stop walking home with him and tell him not to call. But I'd like to keep him as a friend not as boy friend. Would this hurt my reputation, as he's known for being a delinquent?—H.Y.

The "group" made all kinds of fun of her. They played jokes and teased her, and were awfully mean. She just smiled and took it.

One day I said something to her that didn't sound right, so I apologized. I'll never forget her answer. She said, "Debby, I've been hurt so much that all the things you could possibly do to me wouldn't hurt me half as much as some kids have."

This year Jeanette isn't in any of my classes, but every time I see the girls teasing her I think of what she said.

Helen, I think she might not be bad looking if she lost weight and stopped thinking of herself as a lost cause. Is there anything I can do, or would the kids just laugh at me if I asked them to help?—WONDERING

Dear Won: A few kids would laugh, but I know there are many who feel as you do, for I get your kind of letter all the time.

Talk to your guidance counselor and see if you can't cook up a "Help Jeanette Club."

You'd be surprised how much you'll help yourself in the process!—H.

Everything Was Wrong

NEW YORK (AP) — City Comptroller Mario A. Proccacio received an envelope postmarked Mt. Kisco, N.Y., containing $25 in bills and a note which read: "Mr. Mario Proccacio, Comptroller, City of NY. Enclosed amount for conscience fund $25.00 — Board of Ed NY City, Nov. 1968."

Proccacio said he did not mind that his name was misspelled "as long as someone in good conscience found it in his or her heart to return money he or she felt was not his or hers."

He said the money will go into the city's general fund.

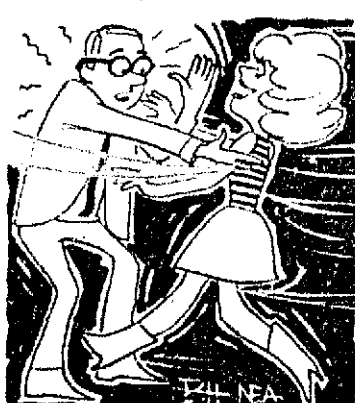

CITY OF LIGHT puts on a good show. Paris seems brighter than ever with Christmas decorations adding to the city's already famous glow.

NEA's Youth Beat

THE NATIONAL REPORT ON WHAT'S HAPPENING

007 LIVES ON! The "danger" image continues to sell. Advertising of men's cosmetics and clothes stresses the happy hazards you will face if you look or smell "their way." Hai Karate, a men's cologne, has a super radio campaign that should win all sorts of awards. Their "instruction in self-defense" by teaching "protective shouts" is a masterpiece of the put on. Sales reflect the creativity involved. Ready-to-wear people haven't gone beyond picturing a guy in a turtle-neck clutching a luger. They will. The entire "irresistible" syndrome featuring the "female attack" is here for some while. The Dana perfume people, originators of the famous "Violent clutch" must be chuckling. They launched a fragrance that is still "dangerous" on the promise of its irresistible impact on men. Danger? Use Hai Karate shout No. 3 (specially designed for hospital zones, crowded double-deck buses and Viet Cong discotheques.)

DOUBLE DRIBBLE WITH A BEAT: The Turtles have challenged the Monkees to a basketball game. The Los Angeles professional "Stars" have offered to provide the floor and the time for the contest preceding a regularly scheduled American Basketball Association game. The Stars will be seeing and hearing bars. Rumor has it that the Monkees average under 5-6 with elevator sneakers on. The Turtles will probably remain undefeated if they elect to play without their tortoise shades. The big losers in all ways will be the fans who will have to suffer through such an antiquated publicity grope.

WHICH WITCH HUNT? Bogota, Colombia, cracks down on marijuana. Recently closed "witch houses" promoting "love potions" found to be hogboblin full of marijuana. Marijuana grows wild in Colombia and the nation's youth are taking advantage of abundance to turn on in greater numbers than ever before. Burgeoning export market (much of it to the United States) gives students new affluence. Arrests up 60 per cent from 1967. Local officials finding that parents and school officials won't co-operate. They are "trying to avoid scandal."

NAMES'LL NEVER HURT THEE? After a study of given names, two scholars have concluded that children with unusual names may suffer psychological damage! (This is news!) They found out that men prefer such names as Linda, Dawn, Sherry and Annette. Women prefer Yvette, Kim, Lisa, Karen, Tammy and Katherine. Some "experts" suggest a long string of names as a means of reducing the psychological trauma that results from being "misnamed." No one seems to have figured out what to do if nicknames such as Buster, Stinky, Tootles or Pussy Cat happen along.

MARRIAGE OVERHAUL PROPOSED: Psychologists recommend marriage be changed to suit the convenience and happiness of people by becoming a "nonlegal, voluntary association between man and woman." They point out that a father's responsibility for support of children does not depend upon being married. Further, that being married in itself isn't proof of fatherhood. One psychiatric worker (female) proposed a five-year contract subject to renewal or cancellation as a solution to marital messes. When a marriage is terminated under this "deal," the children are to be turned over to substitute parents. The lady goes on to say, "Because the significance of blood ties is mostly in our heads." Small wonder so many marriages dissolve with hardly a whimper... on the psychologist's couch.

Opening lead—♠ 10

The South hand is too strong for a one no-trump opening and Sidney Lazard of New Orleans decided to open with one diamond rather than one club in the first round of the U.S. trials.

George Rapee of New York, sitting North, responded one heart to check for major suit and no-trump possibilities and the bidding proceeded to three no-trump in spite of East's one-spade overcall.

West studied for some time and finally decided to open his partner's suit. He led the 10 of spades and East made the good play of signaling strength with the nine rather than playing the ace or the king.

Sidney had to win this first spade. Then he rattled off five diamond tricks. East had to make three discards. He didn't think he could afford to unguard his queen of hearts. He was right about that. He couldn't afford to let a spade go. Therefore he had to throw one heart and both of his clubs.

West's three discards were easy. He got rid of three little clubs but did signal club strength by throwing high and then low.

Now it was up to Sidney to work out a way to make nine tricks. He could try to drop the queen of hearts. He could try a finesse against West but you don't make the American team by trying losing plays. Sidney was pretty sure that he could look right into East's mind. He cashed his king of hearts, threw East in with a spade and waited.

He didn't have to wait long. East took his four spades and conceded the last two tricks.

YOUR DENTAL HEALTH

Real Culprit is Aging Not Thumb-sucking

By WILLIAM LAWRENCE, D.D.S.

DEAR DR. LAWRENCE: As a child I sucked my thumb till I was 12. As a result my top jaw and teeth protrude far over the bottom ones. I also lisp when I talk. I'm 45 now and this condition seems to be getting worse as my lower jaw is settling with old age. Can anything be done? — H. H.

ANSWER: H. H. brings out an interesting point about which many of us reaching further into middle age are becoming increasingly aware. Middle age brings with it significant physical changes and problems. Our mild infirmities and our ill-proportioned features become more noticeable. The big nose becomes bigger; the prognathous jaw sticks out even more; the bird-face-receded chin becomes more retractive; and malocclusion of teeth, and the structures they affect, become more pronounced.

Dr. Theodore Lidz, famous psychiatrist, in his excellent new book, "The Person," talks about it this way: "The wear and tear of life add up and begin to be felt. Hair grows gray, wrinkles appear, paper must be kept at arm's length and then bifocals become necessary. The knee injured in youth stiffens at times, and aches in bad weather. A back injury may be incapacitating every now and then."

I suggest that this may be why H. H. waited until age 45 to begin complaining. As for the cause of protrusive upper jaw and receding chin, it's likely that blame should be focused on genetic defects rather than thumb-sucking, although the latter may have been an influence.

Poor speech is a frequent relative of malocclusion and malposition of jaws, and this too, often worsens with age, keeping pace with changes in the dental apparatus.

But whereas many of our general physical infirmities and malformations get irreparably worse with age, those in and around the mouth can often be corrected. At almost any age, some types of orthodontics are done these days. And dentists knowledgeable in rehabilitative and reconstructive dentistry are producing amazing results.

An example I enjoy referring to is Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt. That great lady's significant cosmetic and speech transformation after she got her new front teeth was a revelation.

Best results sometimes require that many professionals become involved: dental specialists, speech therapists and physician. This is unfortunate in a way because of the expense in time and money and effort. But your own dentist may be the prime performer in this work, and at least should be its co-ordinator.

Some More Bittersweet De Vries

THE CAT'S PAJAMAS & WHICH'S MILK By Peter De Vries Little, Brown $5.95

In these two short novels, De Vries takes two entirely different looks at the human condition, though both of them are concerned with the thin edge between comedy and tragedy.

The chief protagonist of "The Cat's Pajamas" is Tattersall, whose male vanity propels him to make foolish attempts to cut a figure. In the beginning he is a college teacher who leaves his job, then an advertising writer who flops miserably. He has a freakish interval of wild success as a television character, whose ratings suddenly plunge. Then he becomes a dropper headed downward.

Tattersall is a joker, always playing a part, never facing reality. He has a compulsive desire for failure, and achieves it.

"Which's Milk" is about Tillie Shleppsky, a prideful spinster who makes an odd marriage with Pete Seltzer, a raffish individual who is addicted to skirt-chasing.

Their marriage is at first illuminated, and then blighted, by the birth of a boy who soon is taken away by a deadly illness. It is from the wreckage of this marriage that Tillie and Pete find a certain ameliorating fruition.

Hope Teams Win Over Spring Hill

By RALPH ROUNTON
Star Sports Writer

Coming up with good performances on the final games before the two-week Christmas break, the Hope Junior and Senior Girls and the B-team all posted victories over Spring Hill in games played last night at Spring Hill.

In the first game the Hope Junior Girls rolled up a 14-2 lead after the first quarter and never again trailed while recording a 42-35 win over the Springhill girls. Belinda East sacked 29 points and Janet McCain 9 to pace the Kitty Cats to their first victory on a 1-4 mark. Downs totalled 21 points to lead the losers.

Showing much better offensive finesse along with the usual good defensive effort, the Hope Lady Cats had few problems in whipping the Springhill Bearettes 49-33. Coach Charlotte Gibson was able to play everyone, as the Hope lead of 27-11 at the half was never threatened.

Dee Singleton canned 16 points, Mary Beth Millican 10, and Debbie Powell 9 for the Lady Cats, now 3-6 for the winter. Virginia Applegate amassed 23 points to lead both teams for Springhill.

The final game paired the Hope B- squad against the Springhill Bears, and the locals came back in the final quarter to win it 71-68.

Down 23-42 at the quarter, Hope saw that deficit rise as high as 20 points at 32-12 before things leveled off. A 6-1 the half closed the gap, but Springhill still led 42-30 at the break.

Early in the third period the B-team tied it up at 46-46, only to see the host Bears rack up a 55-50 bulge with only the final segment to be played.

Hope fans grimly saw the deficit grow to 60-52 by 6:30 to go, but 80 seconds later a scoring spurge evened things up once more at 63-63. In the next four minutes Springhill was held scoreless, but six points sent Hope out to a nice 69-63 edge with 1:05 remaining.

Five free throws cut that down to 69-68 with 0:35 still left, and when the Bears regained possession they could've won. But they lost it out-of-bounds, and a subsequent double technical foul gave Hope two shots and the possession following.

Both free shots were missed, but things still weren't iced up until Hope soph Charles Rateriff hit a five-footer just before the buzzer. Ricky Putman netted 24, Johnny Johnson 17, and Terry Turner 10 for Hope, and Springhill's leaders were Hershel Downs with 31, Thomas Leonard with 15, and Ronnie Barham with 14 points.

A Year for Chiefs, Jets and Raiders

By MURRAY OLDERMAN
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK — (NEA) — The balance of strength in the American Football League was perfectly equated with the announcement today of the 1968 All-AFL team, chosen by the 10 head coaches.

The powerhouse teams in the American Football League this year have been the Kansas City Chiefs, the New York Jets and the Oakland Raiders. The Chiefs placed five men on both platoons (four of them from their awesome defensive unit); the Jets and Raiders had a quartet apiece.

Just a notch behind them are the San Diego Chargers, who stayed in the Western Division race until the last two weeks of the season. The Chargers feature three players on the offensive team, with a singular honor added. Two of the Chargers, flanker Lance Alworth and offensive tackle Ron Mix, were the only unanimous choices by every head coach in the AFL.

Within one vote of that same unanimity were center Jim Otto of Oakland and linebacker George Webster of the Houston Oilers.

Only one rookie crashed the mythical lineup—Paul Robinson of Cincinnati, who led all running backs in the tally, followed closely by Hewitt Dixon of the Raiders. Joe Namath, the most valuable player in the league, rounded out the attacking backfield.

The maturity of the AFL is evidenced by the presence of three league originals dating back to the founding year of 1960—Mix, Otto and safety Johnny Robinson of the Kansas City Chiefs.

And yet the AFL hasn't neglected an infusion of new strength since, in addition to Paul Robinson and Dixon, four men have joined the all-league roster for the first time. They are Jim Whalen, the unheralded tight end of the Boston Patriots, guard Dave Herman of the New York Jets and his equally active teammate, defense

Robinson Rookie of Year

By LEE MUELLER
NEA Sports Writer

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Paul Robinson listens intently while a fan gushes praise that might cause even another man to blush.

"No kiddin', Paul," the fellow says. "you're the greatest rookie that's ever been. Nobody, not even Jim Brown or Gale Sayers or anybody did what you've done. A thousand yards. Paul, a thousand yards!"

Ten feet away, a teammate turns while buttoning his shirt. "That's my man, Straight Runner," he says. "Go get 'em, Straight."

Robinson's naturally sleepy-looking eyes open wider now and his large mouth breaks into a big ole country boy-type grin. "Yeah," he says, letting it slide out. "Yeah."

That's Paul Robinson. Yeah. The Cincinnati Bengals' rookie halfback. The American Football League's Rookie of the Year, by a mile.

Of the 10 AFL head coaches polled by NEA, one voted for Miami's Jim Killek. Another voted for Kansas City back Robert Holmes. Still another tabbed Oakland cornerback George Atkinson as the season's top first-year performer.

Seven liked Robinson. Seven of 10. Paul H. Robinson, the fellow who took up football as "something to do" in order to qualify for an athletic scholarship in his fifth year of college at the University of Arizona.

For two years at Eastern Arizona Junior College and for two more at Tucson, Robinson was a trackman, setting a school record in the intermediate hurdles—a feat he still likes to talk about.

The fourth year passed, however, and Robinson still did not have a degree in physical education. With his track eligibility completed, some means of financing a fifth year had to be devised. So Paul Robinson tried football—a sport he had not played since high school. "I decided to give it a shot," he said.

A shot is what Robinson was. Breaking into Arizona Coach Darrell Murda's starting lineup, he made Wildcat fans wonder what they had been missing for four years. He impressed everyone, including the Cincinnati Bengals, who made him their No. 3 draft choice.

"Actually," says Robinson, "just playing one year of college ball might have been a big break for me. I didn't have any certain system drilled into me, so when pro ball came along all I had to do was learn their system. I didn't have to unlearn anything."

Robinson learned well. His official rushing total was 1,023 yards in 238 carries. That included eight touchdowns runs—one of 87 yards.

"It's sort of funny," said Robinson, still grinning. "In this one season, I gained more yards than I did in three years of is no problem. "It's the best you can get," Brown said. At other places and other times, however, it is not always good.

Fist fights spring from various wells—one of the largest being located in a downtown bar. "Somebody will start spewing off about the way we dress—the hats, boots, so forth—and we take it from there," a cowboy pointed out.

Inappropriate remarks, it seems, are more apt to come from non-Western city residents than places like Houston and Fort Worth. "Any time you go east of the Mississippi River, you're asking for trouble," Brown said. "Call stock so important," says Brown, a former bullridering champion. "Cowboys have a tendency to get lazy unless the stock is challenging."

Broncs Aren't Mean Anymore

By LEE MUELLER
NEA Sports Writer

OKLAHOMA CITY — (NEA) — Out on the lone prairie, the cowboy sits by a smoking campfire, strums on a battered guitar and wails:

"Why" . . . strum strum . . . "tell me why" . . . strum strum . . . "are they breeding the buck out of the bronc?"

From across the darkened plain, the answer comes bounding like a tumbleweed —and with just as much substance:

"Why not" . . . strum strum.

In several respects, the tumbleweed has a point. In today's super society, the bucking horse has almost as much importance as a lamp wick. The horse today is bred for speed, strength and stamina, not to mention conformation and character.

An awkward, scared, big-rumped bucking bronc? Who needs it? "Who, indeed," says Freckles Brown. "We do."

Freckles Brown is a cowboy, one of the last of the real articles, and he's right. At a time when the rest of the country is prospering as never before, there are more bison around than bucking horses.

This, naturally, is bad news to cowboys and to the people who sponsor big time rodeos across the country. "Cowboys," says Freckles, "tend to be only as good as their ride. Nowadays, they're breeding the buck right out of the bronc. They're breeding the bad out of them."

The dearth of bad horses, however, is only one of several problems the modern-day cowboy faces.

Here in the West where at least 70 colleges and universities now have sanctioned rodeo teams, the professional

The money was never better. Fellows like 25-year-old Larry Mahan—a former high school wrestler—have proved it possible to make $50,000 a year riding bad bulls and bad broncs.

The problems, though, are still there: the traditional fist fight with smart alec strangers, the broken bones and, of course, the grind of traveling from town to town.

But Who's To Digest It?

The computer age has resulted in speeds of 1,000 to 1,200 lines per minute as a common specification of printing machines which can, and do, produce volumes and volumes of "information" on every conceivable subject.

Not to be outdone, one firm has come out with a new output device which — a recent advertisement stated — can print 20,000 lines per minute. With the help of one employee, boasts the company 100,000 pages can be turned out easily in a single, routine eight-hour work shift.

That's a lot of "information." And while computers someday may be developed to give assurance the products of this scientific achievement are not wasted, conspicuously absent at the present time is any estimate of how long it would take to read all that material. — Nashville (Tenn.) Banner

Don't Vex Hospitalized

You may be doing your hospitalized friend or a member of your family a favor by not visiting. Though hospital visits can be beneficial to the patient, experts believe many are unnecessary — even unwanted.

Visitors can cause noise, unrest, congestion, confusion, bring in dirt and germs — all taboo to hospitals, which cherish cleanliness, order and quiet. Many medical authorities claim the increased number of patients in hospitals today, and their swelling visitors' list, are making the problem more serious than ever. Another administrator pointed out that the patients themselves seem unable to cope with the heavy visitor load.

They are at the mercy of anyone who walks in, he said, yet few patients will chance offending a visitor by asking him to leave, though physically uncomfortable and over tired. Hospital officials make it clear that they do not believe in prohibiting visitors — they merely want to thin them out. — Jackson (Miss.) Clarion-Ledger and Daily News

703 Deaths Reported From Flu

By TH ASSOCIATED PRESS

Deaths from influenza, pneumonia and related diseases reached epidemic proportions for the second straight week, the National Communicable Disease Center in Atlanta announced today.

The center reported 703 deaths from pneumonia-influenza — 213 more than normal — during the week that ended Dec. 14. These deaths occurred in 122 cities used by NCDC in compiling weekly reports. The total for the nation would be slightly higher.

For the first week in December, a total of 672 pneumonia-influenza deaths was reported as compared to an expected 476. In determining severity of outbreaks, NCDC uses an expected figure — or normal — for each week of the year. When deaths exceed a predetermined figure above the expected number, NCDC considers the epidemic threshold has been passed.

Santa Sworn In by Marines

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Santa Claus in his fur-trimmed red suit and white beard raised his hand and was sworn into the U.S. Marine Corps.

"Don't worry kids," said Navy Cmdr. Elmer Huber, head of the Armed Forces Examining and Entrance Station. "Santa is ordered to stick around here to get all his presents delivered."

Santa — in this case Ronnie Ogden, 19 — then went back Monday to his Christmas job at a Jacksonville department store, with orders to report to the Marine training base at Parris Island, S. C., Jan. 30.

Takes Crawl There Are Many, Many Symbols of Christmas, All Tell Same Story

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A

University of California researcher has found a way to take the crawl out of crawling insects, and possibly opened a path to a new type of pesticide.

Roy J. Pence, an entomologist at the University of California in Los Angeles, said a derivative of coconut oil causes insects to develop without legs, antennae and other extremities.

Not only do the insects not have a leg to stand on, he says, but the substance causes cockroaches to fall to develop wings and makes their eggs shrivel and fail to hatch. Carpet beetles become albino and starve to death.

The coconut-oil derivative is dodecyl alcohol, which he says is harmless to people and to creatures other than insects.

For the time being, he foresees no changes in pest-control practices.

"A dead pest insect is still better than a legless one," Pence said in an interview. "However, this research reveals a new weapon that may ultimately be used in the war against insect pests."

Gunman Robs Blind Couple

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) —

A gunman robbed a blind couple of all their Christmas shopping money and threatened to kill their frightened, weeping son unless he kept quiet, police said Wednesday.

Deputy inspector of detectives Kenneth Marple said the robbery victims, Kenneth Northrop, 33, and his wife, Carolyn, had gone Christmas shopping Tuesday night, escorted by their sighted son, James, 8.

The gunman accosted the family on a South Side street, stuck a pistol in Northrop's ribs and told him, "I want your money."

Mrs. Northrop told the man, "We are blind and we don't have much money. Let us keep what little we have."

"I don't have any money," the gunman answered. "I'm a hippie. I can't get a job."

The Northrop boy started to cry. The man pointed a gun at his head and told the parents, "Keep him quiet or I'll kill him."

The gunman took $51, then fled.

Christmas-time is a merry time and a busy time, a cherished time and a personal time. A time when the Christmas Story is retold through all the many legends, symbols, and traditions of the season.

Recently, a local junior garden club made Christmas trees for the birds, a report stated. Wondering about it, we learned that it was a fact and not really new.

It seems that long, long ago in the 13th century, Saint Francis searched for new ways to impart the Christmas story. That's how we first had a living manger scene, and that is how we became aware of the important part the birds, which St. Francis loved, had in the legends of Christmas.

According to tradition, the raven was the first to know of the Holy Birth, but the cock was the first to broadcast the news. Doves cooed to the Babe from the rafters, and the nightingale perched on Mary's shoulder and sang lullabies with her.

The humble wren brought moss and feathers to make a coverlet. Today, many people honor the birds on Christmas Eve by giving them a Christmas tree

Development for Negroes

DETROIT (AP) — A Detroit inner city rent strikers organization has purchased nine apartment buildings and plans to rehabilitate them at a cost of $3 million.

The all Negro group, named the United Tenants for Collective Action, purchased the buildings from Albert Goodman for $710,000. It is said to be the largest land acquisition ever made in Detroit by an all-Negro group.

The group plans to use a Negro architect and contractor and as much Negro labor as possible.

A subsidiary of United Tenants financed the down payment from a loan by the Metropolitan Detroit Citizens Development Authority.

The subsidiary, United Tenants Rehabilitation Co., is negotiating for a $3 million loan from the federal housing authority to rehabilitate the buildings.

of their own made of grain tied to a pole.

The masthead of this newspaper reminds us of another symbol of the season, the star. It was certainly one of Hope, too. No modern tree is complete without a star on top, reminding us of the one that shone brightly over Bethlehem's manger so long ago.

We never get too old for the real meaning of Christmas. No matter how many times we celebrate Christmas, the magic of the holiday is rekindled by the warmth we feel as we go about making plans for decorating the house, selecting gifts, entertaining and generally sharing the spirit of the season with those close to us.

Breakfast Club Makes Farewell

CHICAGO (AP) — The final "Breakfast Club" program was taped today with a round of sentimental farewells and parting popping of corn.

It brought the star, Don McNeill, and the show to an end of a run of 35½ years.

The program, to be broadcast Dec. 27, brought back some of the alumni.

McNeill said that the show's run of more than a third of a century had left him with a "great treasure of memories."

He said that he is "going into different phases of activity," and will do some teaching at universities. He did not go into detail.

Rep. Charlotte Reid, R-Ill., who was a vocalist on the show for three years, sang a ditty that suited her present station. It included these lines:

"And it's time to trim the deficit."

The recording in an auditorium at the Allerton Hotel ended in one of the program's fixtures, a moment of silent prayer.

Among those who turned out for the taping were Fran Allison, who was the Aunt Fanny of the show; Dick Noel, a singer; and Burr Tillstrom who made some guest appearances.

Telegrams came in from Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, Lawrence Welk, Walter Brennan, and Joan Blondell.

U.S.-Brazil Problems Are Touchy

By GEORGE GEDDA
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The assumption of dictatorial powers by the military-backed regime of Brazilian President Arthur da Costa e Silva has put the United States face to face with one of its toughest Latin American problems in recent years.

Although Brazil's governments in recent years have been military-oriented, Washington felt that they were sufficiently progressive to deserve the nearly $1.4 billion in loans and grants provided by the United States since 1961.

But last week's power grab, the result of military displeasure over the results of a Brazilian congressional vote, is considered by the United States as more serious than previous Brazilian government turnovers.

Besides the concern over the move to the right, U.S. officials say they are also disturbed because the Brazilian generals acted with no apparent thought about relations with Washington.

One part of the dilemma now facing U.S. officials is that they don't want to take any action that would rebound by a severe anti-American reaction in Brazil.

Such American action could result in the withdrawal or exclusion of Brazil from the Alliance for Progress. Without Brazil, the largest and most populous country in Latin America, the Alliance would virtually cease to exist as an important force for social progress.

But these officials say that in the long run the United States has little choice but to disapprove of a dictatorial regime whose principles are completely opposed to those set forth in the Alliance for Progress charter.

"You can't expect to exclude Brazil from any program for Latin America and expect the program to have any universality," one American official said.

There are four options open to the U.S. in its dealing with Brazil as officials here see it:

— Devise a way to maintain economic assistance programs with Brazil without giving the impression of supporting the government.

— Try to work around the government, continuing U.S. aid-to-people type programs by working through other, unofficial sources.

— Change the objectives of the aid program, concentrating only on economic development to the exclusion of social development.

— Terminate our Brazilian aid program all together.

A quick answer to the problem seems unlikely in view of the transition period going on in the United States government.

Kidnapers Free Victim Unharmed

By FRANK MURRAY
Associated Press Writer

MIAMI (AP) — Kidnap victim Barbara Jane Mackle returned to her parents today after she was freed from a box in which she was buried for more than three nights in the red clay of freezing North Georgia woodlands. Her parents paid a $500,000 ransom.

"I'm fine, I'm fine, Uncle Frank," Barbara told Frank Mackle by telephone after the rescue.

And the 20-year-old coed told her mother that during the more than 80 hours she was in the box she worried most that her family was worrying about her.

An escaped convict and his woman companion charged with the kidnaping remained at large.

Barbara's ordeal ended about 5 p.m. Friday. The girl still wore the red and white checkered nightgown she had on when kidnaped. A sweater was added from some unknown source.

The kidnapers gave the word where Barbara could be found about 5 p.m., some 15 hours after retrieving the suitcase full of $20 bills from a shopping center on Miami's Tamiami Trail.

When the noon deadline for the girl's release had passed with no word of her safety, FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover announced that kidnap warrants had been issued for Gary Steve Krist, 23, an escaped convict from California, and Ruth Eisenmann Schier, 26, a green-eyed blonde. Both were researchers at the University of Miami Institute of Marine Science.

Hoover said the box in which the debutante was imprisoned near Atlanta was equipped with an air pump, food, water, a fan, and a battery-powered lamp that failed hours before she was located.

The lid of the box was screwed down and flexible vent pipes protruded through the soil.

Barbara told her brother the kidnapers "were very considerate" and she told her mother she was "very well taken care of by a woman," Frank Mackle said.

Once rescued, Barbara was bundled into a suit and warm blue coat and rushed aboard her father's private plane in Atlanta. The father, Robert F. Mackle, a multimillionaire land developer who is a friend of President-elect Nixon, looked worn but managed a thin smile.

Crop Season Sets Record Production

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 1968 crop season set a new record in total production as higher yields tended to offset lower acreages for many crops.

The Agriculture Department's final estimates of the year Thursday confirmed earlier forecasts that the harvest would top all previous years. Production was two per cent above the previous record set in 1967.

Record high production figures were set for both food grains and oilseeds. In addition, production of oats, barley, cotton, sugar crops, dry beans and peas, popcorn, broomcorn, deciduous fruits, and fresh and processing vegetables was larger than a year ago.

The acreage planted to oilseeds substantially in 1968, passing record yields of a year ago. Among major field crops producing record yields were wheat, oats, barley, soybeans, rye, flaxseed, hay and potatoes. Major crops with yields below 1967 included corn, rice, peanuts and tobacco.

Early Singer Is Forgiven

CAMBRIDGE, England (AP) — Frank Clarke, the garbage collector whose early morning singing on his rounds at Cambridge University disturbed the sleep of Prince Charles, says all has been forgiven.

The 20-year-old prince complained in a student newspaper nine months ago that Clarke's dawn rendering of "Oh Come All Ye Faithful" woke him up. Clarke became something of a celebrity and made a record called "Why Don't They Buy Rubber Dushings?"

Recently the two met again when Clarke's garbage truck blocked a road as Charles was cycling to his studies.

"He said he liked the copy of the record I sent him," Clarke said. "Then he was good enough to tell me that what really woke him was the noise of my truck and not my singing."

"All has been forgiven. He's a real gent."

Astronauts Are on Way to the Moon

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Reaching for new frontiers, the Apollo 8 astronauts rocketed today toward an orbit around the moon, riding into space on the awesome power of a Saturn 5 super-rocket.

The mightiest rocket ever built blasted away at 7:51 a.m. EST to start Air Force Col. Frank Borman, Navy Capt. James A. Lovell Jr. and Air Force Maj. William A. Anders on what could be man's greatest adventure — a Christmas Eve orbit of the moon.

For three days the astronauts are to soar outward on a quarter-million-mile voyage across trackless space and then fire themselves into an orbit just 69 miles above the lunar surface.

To reach the moon, Apollo 8 first must orbit the earth twice in about three hours while the spacemen make certain all systems are operating perfectly. Then, a second burst of power from Saturn 5's third stage engine is to propel them outward toward their distant target, 230,074 miles away.

The rocket lifted off at the exact minute that was planned last August when the moon voyage was first announced.

TV Executives Scored for Violent Shows

By NEIL GILBRIDE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Members of a presidential commission raked television executives over the coals today for what they said is a steady stream of murder, rape, mayhem and sadism in TV entertainment programs.

"Your reply is totally inadequate," Rep. Hale Boggs, D-La., told President Leonard H. Goldenson of American Broadcasting Companies Inc., who said his network is trying to reduce the number of violent programs.

"There has been no change at all," Boggs said, citing figures showing numerous incidents of violence in almost every hour of television programming.

Goldenson said ABC is planning to switch from some of Saturday morning's adventure cartoons for children to comedy shows.

Goldenson said ABC has been working to cut down on gory TV shows because the public has become oversensitive to violence since the assassinations of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

The testimony was before the National Commission on the Causes and Prevention of Violence in a series of hearings on the impact of mass media portrayals of violence on the public.

Boggs, a commission member said youngsters, including his own grandchildren, are exposed to a steady diet of violence, aggression and sadism on television.

Commission member Walter W. Menninger, a psychiatrist, said TV networks should study the effect of the programs on the public, much as drug companies are obligated to know the impact of their products.

"Is there any reason your industry cannot do the same thing?" he said.

Goldenson said such a study by ABC would be suspect but pledged cooperation in any such research project set up by the White House commission for a similar responsible group.

Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., criticized the reluctance of Goldenson and Elmer St. Lower, president of ABC News, to concede that the presence of television news cameras have a sometimes dramatic effect on how people act.

"When those things (cameras) move in, everybody acts different, including me," Hart said.

"That camera influences me tremendously. Why don't you admit it?"

Hart added he was not advocating the elimination of TV coverage but was urging wider handling by network newsmen and executives.
